

It's good to be green.

Tony D'Alberto and Rod Nash Racing are one of the first in V8 Supercar to promote positive environmental practices through a partnership with BioMax, a Victorian producer of quality biodiesel.

BioMax is fuelling the team truck, which transports the car and equipment to each V8 Supercar Championship Series event.

"By converting to BioMax B20 biodiesel, we'll be able to save 15 per cent on CO2 emissions, which amounts to around 7,000 kilograms," D'Alberto said.

Link: <http://www.mnews.com.au/media/issues/D048.pdf>